A Word for the Washington Statue. To the Editor of The Evening Star This fine weather suggests that it would be well to give the statue of Washington a breath of freshair. All winter it has been boxed up and the few air holes which accident had made have been carefully closed with boards, apparently taken from a dilapidated back yard fence. But do not spend a week of time and much money in removing the hen coop which has for several years disgraced the Capitol plaza. One able-bodied man working eight hours a day with a saw and ax will make the best possible disposition of it. Somebody will, of course, be out of a job, but the public generally will be well pleased.

THE IMPROVED MASONIC HALL. Last night the improved Masonic Hall was formally opened and the four lodges that have their headquarters there united to make the occasion one of more than ordinary interest.

The opening was in the nature of a reception, at which both dancing and music were enjoyed until a late hour. All the lodge rooms were thrown open and the guests were permitted to roam at will and view the many interesting Masonic relies that were everywhere prominently displayed. Among those which attracted the most attention were a rare oil painting of the crucifixion, a portrait of the once prominent divine Dr. Balch the valuable once prominent divine, Dr. Balch, the valuable miscellaneous library, antique pictures of Brother Mountz, one of Georgetown's earliest Masons, the various symbolic pictures and the much talked of banners. The famous marble gavel that was used by Gen. Washington at the laying of the Capitol's corner stone was not on exhibition, as it was securely locked in the vaults of the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank. The improvements to the building are of both a substantial and costly nature. The barquet hall cost in the neighborhood of $7,000 and is a hall cost in the neighborhood of $7,000 and is a large and pleasant room. Last night the dancers had possession of it. Buoy, D. D., of Philadelphia a member of the executive committee and W. W. Smith, A. M., LL. D., president of the Randolph Macon College, the vice chancellor of the university. In response to the interest expressed by many distinguished women in the university project, the board took action for the organization by the women of the country of a "woman's fund." Mrs. John A. Logan, who is one of the trustees, was requested to inaugurate this movement, and consented to do so. Several large subscriptions for the endowment and building fund and many encouraging promises of future gifts were reported.

The funeral of Miss Hattie Anderson took place from her parents' residence yesterday afternoon. Flowers, showing the esteem of her many friends, were very numerous and beautiful, especially those sent by the King's Daughters and Epworth League, the former contribters and Epworth League, the former contributing a large Maltese cross with the initials I. H. N. The Epworth League had adopted resolutions, which were read, expressing deep regret for the loss of their faithful friend and member and tendering the family their heartfelt hympathy. The league will in the near future, in connection with the King's Daughters and Sunday school, hold a memorial service in the M. E. Church to show their high esteem for her worth and estimable character.

In the Archer grant, should be collected. In the Archer grant, made some ten years ago, it was provided that "all real estate owned or leased by Archer and his associates for the purpose of carrying on their business shall be exempt from taxation for twenty years." Under this Archer could have leased an entire ward, and so required the other two wards to pay all the taxes. This scheme has long fallen through, and while the citizens are not disposed to make any more "Archer contracts" the disposition to give 'Archer contracts' the disposition to give "Archer contracts" the disposition to give the most liberal encouragement to manu-facturing enterprises is universal, and as the decision in Whiting against the city council of West Point does not make new law, but only declares what has always been the law, there is no reason to suppose that any fractious taxpayers will take time, money and energy to overthow a system which successive nergy to overthrow a system which successive city councils have promoted in order to benefit all the property in the town. Mr. James Dobbyn Dead.
James Dobbyn, an old and respected citizen, died at his residence on Capitol Hill early this have been carried out only because no citizen desired to contest them. It is thought that no new departure will be made in the matter, and as no contest was made in the past so none will be made in the future. The city has always aimed to outdo itself in the matter of encouraging manufactories here, and in some cases it has gone so far as to give to an alleged military company which escorted Gen. Lafaymanufactoring corporation the power to deette in and out of town while on his second visit to America, and was present at the Presi-dent's New Year levee which was particularly in honor of the visiting general.

Today a jury under a writ de lunatico sat in the Circuit Court room in the case of Dr George W. Webb on the petition of E. Douglas Webb and it excited much interest, drawing portion of the crowd unable to get into the Schneider trial. Mr. R. Byrd Lewis appeared for the petitioning brother and Mr. J. G. Bigelow for the respondent, Dr. Webb. The petitioner claims that his brother is incapable of managing his affairs and Dr. Webb contends that he is fully able to manage affairs and that his brother is endeavoring to get possession of his property.

There is not a wholesale or retail wine and liquor establishment in the national capital that is better and more favorably known than the old and reliable headquarters of Mr. James Tharp, at 818 F street northwest, where the Inarp, at 818 f street northwest, where the pure and unadulterated "Old Rye Berkeley" stands pre-eminently high, both as a medicine and as a most excellent tonic or beverage. The reason why this popular brand of liquor has a national reputation is because it is extensively used by members of both branches of Congress, who, as a general rule, know a good thing when who, as a general rule, know a good using when they see it, but appreciate the more after they sample it. His imported and domestic wines are selected with a great deal of care and su-perior judgment, based upon many years of practical knowledge in handling wine and liquors.
